30 years of ILS

EDITORIAL MESSAGE

ILS continues its tradition of providing the right environment, tools and opportunities to transform and equip our children to face this increasingly democratizing and globalized world.

This year 2012, ILS celebrates thirty years in Nigeria - thirty years of commitment, service and integrity. Over these years, ILS has succeeded in inculcating in the children the sense of independent living, decision making and the art of self-learning without compromising on our traditional values and culture. The children have shown excellence beyond expectations in many fields, making ILS a recognized institution worldwide.

It is with a great sense of pride and honour that we bring forth this issue of FLYING HIGH 2011-12 for you. It is a time to take a pause and look back at some very pleasant memories of our achievements in academics and co-curricular activities, It is a time to appreciate the diversification of the school in different fields, the laurels outside and the transformation of our children into responsible adults.

ILS is synonymous with change and progress and is committed to providing complete holistic education to children, thus producing citizens who can be of great service and value to the society.

Let us take pride in ILS and hold our heads high for being a part of this noble and inspiring organization...

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Indian Language School has celebrated its 30th Anniversary, and looking back at the years gone by, I can say that though the road has not always been easy, the rewards are great. Of those who were present to establish this institution on that Baisakhi day in April 1982, very few remain in Lagos today, but the ILS family and the Indian community in Nigeria, owe them a debt of gratitude, because the tiny acorn has grown into a fruitful tree.

Today, ILS has come of age with well-established traditions and tried and tested systems in place. We simultaneously focus on academics, extracurricular activity and value building, with the long term goal of shaping individuals who are both patriotic Indians and dynamic global citizens. Today our Alumni can be found the world over and it would not be an exaggeration to say that most of them are doing extremely well professionally. Some of them have written for this special anniversary edition. A large number acknowledge the role that ILS has given in creating within them a cultural identity that is Indian and a cultural broad-mindedness that is universal.

The journey of ILS will continue and now the responsibility of present and future members of the ILS family will be to uphold, strengthen and continue to build upwards on what these 30 years have already established. May ILS grow from strength to strength and become a shining beacon in the field of education.

Congratulation to the Magazine Committee for the tremendous effort put in by them to bring out this special 30th anniversary issue.

Message from High Commissioner

As the Patron of the Indian Language School Lagos, I join various stakeholders to celebrate 30th anniversary of this important institution. It is also an occasion to remember the role played by various pioneers and visionaries who selflessly initiated and nurtured the I.L.S over past 30 years. But for their dedication, the ILS would not be where it stands in terms of the numbers of students and the quality of education.

During the past three decades, thousands of students have passed out of the ILS portals to succeed in their lives all over the world. Over the years, the ILS has become a source of great comfort to the Indian parents in Lagos. On the other hand, the growing profile of the Indian community here has meant commensurate expansion of the ILS without loss of quality of education. Overall, the ILS would continue to be an important and integral part of the Indo-Nigerian popular interface.

The impressive legacy of the Indian School in past three decades imbues a sense of responsibility on its trustees and the management to not only preserve, but to build upon it. I hope that they would prove equal to this task.

The High Commission of India to Nigeria has been associated with the Indian Language School Lagos right from its inception. The High Commission wishes to reiterate its commitment to the School and its activities in future as well.

I wish to greet all stakeholders on this occasion and wish the ILS even greater glory in years to come.
